Upcoming Events

New: 2011 Resumed Session, Committee on NGOs, 16–24 May 2011

The Committee concluded its work in New York on Tuesday, and recommended 144 applications for consultative status with ECOSOC. These recommendations will be reviewed by the Council at its annual session taking place in Geneva, at or around 25 July. A list of recommended NGOs is available at bit.ly/j0TPPS

General Assembly Informal Thematic Debate on the Green Economy, 2 June 2011

The Thematic Informal debate aims to strengthen the understanding of green economy and of what the international community, each Member State and local communities can do to transition to green economy. The debate will underscore the linkages between green economy, economic development, poverty eradication, and environmental protection. It is envisioned that these discussions will help strengthen mutual understanding and support international collaboration regarding the green economy.

2011 ECOSOC High Level Segment, Geneva, 4–7 July 2011

The Annual Ministerial Review of the 2011 High Level Segment of the Council will focus on implementing the internationally-agreed goals and commitments in regard to Education. The Ministerial Review will assess the state of implementation of the United Nations Development Agenda with a focus on its education-related goals and objectives. It will also analyze key challenges affecting the achievement of the internationally agreed goals and commitments related to education and consider recommendations and proposals for action, including new initiatives and partnerships to accelerate the implementation of education-related objectives. It also aims to promote broad-based engagement by encouraging input from a broad-range of stakeholders. Organizations in general and special consultative status are encouraged to make oral presentations to the Council, as well as to submit written statements.

Frequently Asked Questions...

What is ECOSOC?

ECOSOC stands for Economic and Social Council. It is one of the principal organs of the United Nations, together with the General Assembly and the Security Council. It is the main organ where NGOs can participate in the work of the United Nations, which remains, first and foremost, an organization with membership restricted to States. Learn more here:

<http://www.un.org/en/ecosoc/about/faqs.shtml>

What is consultative status?

NGOs in consultative status with ECOSOC can attend its meetings. They can also attend meetings of many other bodies, such as the Commission for Sustainable Development, the Commission on the Status of Women, and the Human Rights Council. You can find examples of other bodies under Upcoming Events on page 1. Currently some 3,400 NGOs have consultative status and can thus attend these events.

Why do I need consultative status with ECOSOC?

It depends on your organization's direction. If you want to influence the UN's decision-making process, or you feel your organization should be recognized by the UN, you should certainly consider applying for status. If you feel you can make better results on the ground, maybe applying for consultative status is not for you.

How do I apply?

NGOs can apply online from our website. The annual deadline for applications is 31 May. The Committee on NGOs meets twice, in January and May of the following year, to review applications. It is a lengthy process – each year some 500 NGOs apply. The Committee recommends to the Council to approve their applications. The Council approves this recommendation once a year, during its substantive session, in Geneva or New York, in July of each year.
