

*The gender effect of leave and care policies
– stronger with dads involved!*

Ms. Katrín Jakobsdóttir, Iceland

H.E. Bathabile Olive Dlamini, South Africa

Ms. Päivi Sillanaukee, Finland

Ms. Trine Skei Grande, Norway

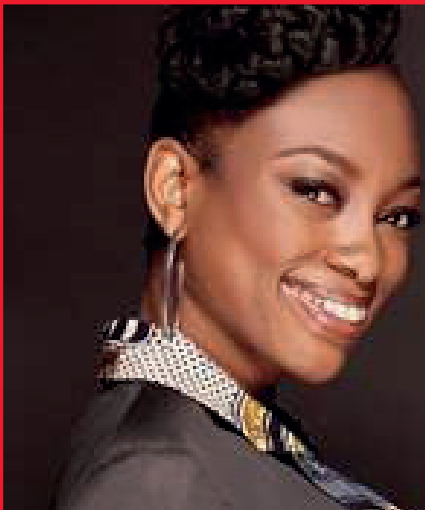

Ms. Eyðgunn Samuelson, Faroe Islands

Ms. Eva Kjer Hansen, Denmark

Ms. Åsa Lindhagen, Sweden

Ms. Femi Oke, international journalist and writer

The gender effect of leave and care policies – stronger with dads involved!

Host: Ms. Katrín Jakobsdóttir, Prime Minister of Iceland
Moderator: Ms. Femi Oke, international journalist and writer
Time: Tuesday 12 March, 3:00-4:15 pm
Venue: ECOSOC Chamber, UN Headquarters

Gender equality starts at home. Sharing unpaid care work is a game-changer for both women and men. In the Nordics, decades of political efforts have put in place affordable and quality childcare, paid parental leave and elderly care. The result – more women in the labour market, more dads at home. This is your invitation to a discussion about how investments in gender equality foster employment, family wellbeing and growth.

- Ms. Katrín Jakobsdóttir, Prime Minister, Iceland
- H.E. Bathabile Olive Dlamini, Minister of Women, South Africa
- Ms. Åsa Lindhagen, Minister for Gender Equality, Sweden
- Ms. Eva Kjer Hansen, Minister for Equal Opportunities, Denmark
- Ms. Päivi Sillanaukee, Permanent Secretary, Ministry of Social Affairs and Health, Finland
- Ms. Eyðgunn Samuelsen, Minister of Gender Equality, Faroe Islands
- Ms. Trine Skei Grande, Minister of Culture and Equality, Norway

We are using #nordicsolutions and #sharethecare

#nordicsolutions to global challenges